

SEMINAR FSSC 22000 : 2013 (FOOD SAFETY SYSTEM CERTIFICATION 22000) IMPLEMENTATION

INTRODUCTION

Food Safety is global concern, not only because of the importance for public health, but also because of its impact on international trade. Globalization of food production and procurement makes food chains longer and more complex and increases the risk of food safety incidents. Effective and harmonized food safety systems shall manage and ensure the food safety suitability of food in each link of the supply chain. For this reason ISO develop the standard for food safety management systems of ISO 22000, which applies to all organization in the food chain and thus ensures integrity of chain.

FSSC 22000 contains as complete certification scheme for Food Safety Systems based on existing standards for certification (ISO 22000,ISO 22003 and technical specifications for sectors PRPs). Manufacturer that already certified against ISO 22000 will only need additional review against technical specification sector PRPs to meet this certification scheme. Organization that want to integrate quality in their management systems follow the requirements of ISO 9001.

It is develop for the certification of food safety systems of organizations in the food chain that process or manufacture animal products, perishable vegetal products with a long shelf life,(other) food ingredients like additives, vitamins, bio cultures and food packaging material manufacturing
